

Governance & Status Framework

Governance & institutional integrity

Decisions need evidence and a right to reply. Paying a fee does not buy a favourable decision.

Make a free public commitment to the ten EETC principles.

Signing means making a commitment. It does not certify your company or prove that every practice has been checked.

MOVETHICS Membership

The guides are public. Membership funds the association's work; it does not buy certification or guarantee customers.

Evidence assessment

Granting the status requires sufficient evidence for all ten principles after scope and terms have been agreed. Validity is limited to twelve months. Evidence, contact details and findings remain private; only the granted status, scope and validity are published with revocable consent.

Assessed covers only the scope, period and evidence reviewed. It does not certify the whole organisation or guarantee legal compliance. Paying a fee or a Quick Check score cannot grant it.

Decisions may be appealed through this case. Someone other than the initial reviewer must review the appeal; the previous status remains in force until a new decision.

Complaints & Appeals Policy

A complaint is not proof of wrongdoing. The organisation concerned must be told the issue and allowed to reply before an adverse conclusion. A person with a conflict of interest must step aside or have safeguards recorded. Appeals are reviewed independently of the first decision. Correct public information if a published conclusion is shown to be wrong.

Competition Compliance Protocol

Do not share individual current or future rates, margins or bids. Market data must be sufficiently grouped and checked before publication. Meetings about market data need an agenda and controlled publication.

Governance & institutional integrity

Evidence before conclusion.

Right of reply before adverse finding.

No purchased influence.

No price coordination or commercially sensitive exchange.

Commitment is not verification.

EETC Signatory

Signing means making a commitment. It does not certify your company or prove that every practice has been checked.
